Profile

A self-taught developer seeking a role as an entry-level front end developer in London.

I have taught myself to code using many platforms, including Codecademy, Udemy, Youtube and other resources such as Stack Overflow, and of course playing around with code, enduring countless hours ands days of trial and error.

Whilst most of my learning has been focused on the front-end, more so React, I am more than open to learning new skills and technologies, whether it's on the back-end of development or even learning new frameworks and languages.
